Special Information Regarding Daytime Events

Please understand that the National Naval Aviation Museum is one of the largest institutions of its kind in the world and is very much a working museum. To this end, we may not be able to control the noises associated with the functioning of a busy museum that may arise during a ceremony or event held during our hours of operation. (Check Read Special Request

Please be as specific as possible when requesting aircraft movements, special parking, and audio requirements so that museum staff members can assess the ability to meet these requirements and schedule them. (Check Read

Set-Up and Breakdown

Set-up for events will not begin before 9:00 AM unless approved by the Director, National Naval Aviation Museum.

The requesting activity or group is responsible for returning the event area to the state of cleanliness and order. Chair and table set-up and breakdown are the responsibility of the customer. (Check Read

Practices

Particularly in the case of military ceremonies, we understand the need to schedule a practice prior to the actual event and will accommodate these requests. However, please be advised that actual ceremonies and events take precedence over practices. (Check Read

Publicity

Events held in the museum may not be publicized in print, broadcast, or online media without prior approval of the museum. (Check Read

Please be advised that all events are subject to change by the National Naval Aviation Museum. Operational requirements may require a change in scheduled events. Every effort will be made to minimize the impact of possible changes. (Check Read

No event that may be interpreted as a fund raiser or political activity may be held in the museum. (Check Read

I hope the above information answers many of your questions about holding an event in the museum. Please note that you will require a military or Naval Aviation Museum Foundation sponsor before an event can be considered. () check as read
